PERIOD: 10. 2. 2016 – 9. 4. 2016

OUTLINE:

- Brief description of the internship/research stay:

I went on my internship on behalf of Kintari foundation. From February to April 2016 I was on South Lombok (in the villages of Ngolang, Petiwung and Mong) where I taught the English language in local schools. Lessons took place from Monday to Thursday. I taught in preschool, primary school and I had English course for adults too.

- Brief description of my activities:

I taught the English language in local schools. With another teacher I organized an afternoon course of English and leisure time activities for children from Mong where we were accommodated. Because of the poor environment situation on the island I prepared an ecology project for children from the primary school in Ngolang. The project was especially focused on pollution in rivers and seas. The project was divided into two parts – the first part consisted of lectures and presentations, while the second part dealt mainly with the practical workshop. In the second part of the ecology project children were picking up rubbish around the school and then they created various products from plastics (flower pots, mosaic, brooms, and toys). I was helping with the coordination of the new project which provides medical service from April 2016.

- Benefit of the internship for student and host institution:

It was my first journey to a developing country. I got a lot of field experience which, hopefully, becomes useful for my future studies and internships. I met with a different culture. In my opinion, I have improved my organizational skills, flexibility, soft and presentation skills. I gained experience with education in a developing country. I helped Kintari foundation as a full-time teacher and with coordination of the medical project. I created a model of ecology project which will be reused by local teachers and future volunteers in other schools.

- Proposal of outcomes:

I am going to organize a presentation of my internship on my high school (the end of May). I would like to write an article in a school magazine (Žurnál UP) and I plan a lecture in UPOL (e. g. Cestovatelské úterky).
